

Who We Are

Hung Hing Printing Group Limited (0450.HK) is a listed company in Hong Kong and one of the largest and most respected printers in Asia. Hung Hing began in 1950 as a small printing house located in Central, Hong Kong. In the six decades that followed, we are engaging in the manufacturing of conventional and children's novelty books, packaging for toys, cosmetics and other consumer products. We, along with our subsidiaries, have also expanded in the printing and manufacturing of paper, folding cartons, corrugated containers, high-end luxury packaging products, and most recently into digital bookstores dedicated for parents and children.

Our customers today include the most recognized names in toys and consumer goods, as well as leading publishers from around the world. We now operate five plants in China and are headquartered in Hong Kong. We employ over 17,000 dedicated employees, and maintain production capabilities that continue to lead the industry.

Going beyond Paper Products

In addition to its core printing business, the company is also committed in using innovative technologies that can combine digital and print media to bring the best out of paper products. Its BelugaBloo Kids Bookstore now features over 300 children's applications and close to 400K thousand downloads since its launch.

What is the objective of the Graduate Trainee Program

The Graduate Trainee Program (GTP) aims at drawing talents into our organization. We are looking for fresh graduates with high-potential to be developed and groomed into playing a major role in supporting the growth of our organization. As a trainee, you will learn the intricacies of our business and what it takes to stay competitive and be successful in this challenging environment. During this 18-month program, you will have the opportunities to work alongside with senior managers and take part in business improvement initiatives to tackle critical issues facing the company. Mix of on-the-job training, coaching, and mentoring will be our primary approach for developing your foundational skills while gaining essential industry knowledge and best practices. Upon completion of the program, you will be placed into key roles across the company that complements your skills, interests, and business needs. From there on, it is really up to you to take up opportunities to develop your career.
